

Supporting Student Literacy

Powerful Instructional Strategies

May 13, 2010
Eamer Auditorium
STF Building, Saskatoon, SK

Supporting student literacy is a key component in the work of all teachers in every subject area. This workshop will provide an opportunity for teachers in all subject areas to examine and explore instructional strategies that improve student literacy. Participants will experience a differentiated approach to the teaching of literacy based on their interest, readiness, and needs. Facilitators will model, explain, and provide hands-on opportunities for participants to engage with literacy learning.

Outcomes:

- Participants will increase their understanding of the importance of explicitly teaching and using strategies to develop student literacy in all subject areas.
- Participants will explore a repertoire of research based strategies and tactics to support student comprehension and response through writing, speaking and/or representing.

Participants will explore powerful strategies such as:

- Using advance organizers
- Making thinking visible
 - Representing thinking graphically
 - Mapping ideas and concepts
- Making connections
- Tracking thinking
- Activating prior knowledge
- Designing effective questions
- Using before, during, and after strategies for reading and responding
- Supporting understanding through cueing systems

Cost: $94.50 (GST included)
Includes lunch and materials
